Let's Start!

It's not my day!

Learning Outcome

Describe hypothetical situations in written and spoken interactions according to work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- How often do you have a bad day or a bad week?
- What do you do when you are having a bad day to make yourself feel better?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about reactions and behavior in a work situation.
- I can quote other people.
- I can react to things going wrong and talk about hypothetical situations about the past.

Let's Explore!

Sally says "It's not my day*!"

* "It's not my day" is a way to say that everything is going wrong today.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

You know the expression "It's not my day"? Well, it's not my week. Things really aren't going my way. Maybe I'm just overly sensitive, but I'm very frustrated right now. Here's why. I had a blog assignment due last Friday. My boss told me I had to hand in the piece by the end of the day on Friday. I was really busy that day and was stressed out.

I should have confirmed that it had to be in before 5:00 p.m. but I didn't. I told her I would submit it by the end of the day. Unfortunately, there was a misunderstanding. I thought the end of day was at midnight and my boss thought it was at 5:00 p.m., the end of the work day. If I had confirmed the deadline, I would have known it had to be finished at 5:00 p.m. I could have made sure that I finished on time.

Instead, I worked on other things and I finished my piece at home after dinner. I sent it to my boss at 11:30 p.m. This morning she asked if I could come to her office. She seemed really angry! She said that my assignment was late and that she was disappointed with me. I told her I was very sorry and that it would have been on time if I had been clear on the deadline.

Let's Practice!

Sally recounts her conversation with her boss.

Instructions: Unscramble the words to find the mystery sentences.

1. My / hand / day / the / in / told / the / piece / boss / of / the / to / had / by / me / end / . / I

2. By / I / the / end / of / day / . / her / submit / the / I / told / it / would

3. morning / could / if / office / asked / This / to / I / her / come she

4. With / was / that / . / me / she / She / said / dissapointed

5. Very / was / told / I / . / her / sorry / I

Let's Practice!

Sally is having some troubles at work.

Target Words

- overly (adverb): to an excessive degree
e.g. Maybe I'm just overly sensitive, but I'm very frustrated right now.
- sensitive (adjective): easily upset by the things that people think or say e.g. Maybe I'm just too sensitive, but I'm very frustrated right now.
- hand in (verb): to give (something) to a person
e.g. My boss told me I had to hand in the piece.
- misunderstanding (noun): a failure to understand something e.g. Unfortunately, there was a misunderstanding.
- on time (expression): something that happens at a previously scheduled time (not late) e.g. I could have made sure that I finished on time.
- to submit (verb): to give (a document, proposal, piece of writing, etc.) to someone e.g. I told her I would submit it by the end of the day.
- disappointed (adjective): feeling sad, unhappy, or displeased because something was not as good as expected
e.g. She said that my assignment was late and that she was disappointed with me.

Learning Points

Reported Speech and Questions

You use reported speech when you are saying (reporting) what other people said.

When you tell people what someone has said in the past, you need to change the verb to a tense further back in time.

Direct Speech	Reported Speech
"I like him."	He said he liked him.
"I'm coming to the party."	He said he was coming .
"I already ate ."	He said he had already eaten
"I can cook."	He told me he could cook.
"Where do you live ?"	He asked me where I lived .

You have to change the pronoun if you are reporting what someone else said. Compare these two sentences. In each case the person actually said "I don't want to go."

- I said, "I don't want to go." > I said I didn't want to go.
- Bill said, "I don't want to go." > Bill said he didn't want to go.

Look at the chart below to see the changes in verb tense.

Direct Speech	Reported Speech
Simple Present	Simple Past
Present Progressive	Past Progressive
Simple Past	Past Perfect
Present Perfect	Past Perfect
Past Progressive	Past Perfect Progressive
Future Simple (will)	Conditional (would)
Modal can	Modal could
Modal may	Modal might
Modal will	Modal would

Learning Points

Examples:

- My boss told me I had to hand in the piece by the end of the day on Friday.
- I told her I would submit it by the end of the day.
- She asked if I could come to her office.
- She said that my assignment was late and that she was disappointed with me.
- I told her I was very sorry.

Talking Hypothetically About the Past

You use could have, should have and would have to talk about things that were possible in the past and may or may not have happened.

The structure:

Subject + modal verb + have + verb (past participle)

I could have done

You should have made

She would have said

You use could have to talk about possibilities if something had been different in the past.
For example: I could have made sure that I finished on time.

You use should have to talk about past events that did not happen and to speculate about events that may or may not have happened.

For example: I should have confirmed that it had to be in before 5:00 p.m.

You use should not have to speculate negatively about what may or may not have happened.

You also use should not have to express regret for past actions.

You use would have to imagine a result if something had been different in the past.
For example: It would have been on time if I had been clear on the deadline.

* Would have expresses more certainty about the result than could have.

Examples:

- I should have confirmed that it had to be in before 5:00 p.m. but I didn't.
- If I had confirmed the deadline, I would have known it had to be finished at 5:00 p.m.
- I could have made sure that I finished on time.
- It would have been on time if I had been clear on the deadline.
